

FANKIT GUIDELINES

WELCOME, CITIZEN!

We're delighted that you want to make Star Citizen content. The only thing that we ask is that all made content complies with our Fankit Agreements and Terms of Service (specifically the section on User Generated Content, or UGC), as well as the guidelines contained herein.

We've included these guidelines, along with a selection of official assets, to make it as easy as possible for you to make content that fits into the Star Citizen universe, in line with our brands and trademarks.

We're excited to share this guide and content with you, and we'll see you in the 'verse!

The Star Citizen Team

WHAT'S INCLUDED IN THE FANKIT GUIDELINES

We truly appreciate everything you do to spread the word about Star Citizen. We ask that when you make artwork, a website, or design, it's clear that it was made by the wider fan community and that it doesn't conflict with our official branding.

These guidelines explain how to do this:

1. FANKIT CONTENTS OVERVIEW	P.4
2. STAR CITIZEN COMMUNITY LOGO	P.5
2a/2b. REQUIRED TRADEMARK NOTICE AND DISCLAIMERS	P.6
3. WHAT NOT TO DO WITH STAR CITIZEN ASSETS	P.8

*Note: we will add Squadron 42 to the Fankit site shortly.

2. STAR CITIZEN MADE BY THE COMMUNITY LOGO

To identify your work as a Star Citizen fan project, you need to add the Made By The Community logo to the corner of any images with no less than 50% opacity and use a reasonably legible size. Please note that when using this logo, you also need to include the required trademark notice. You can find it on page 6.

While we prefer you use the Made By The Community logo, but understand that it may conflict artistically. In cases where the logo doesn't work, please add the alternative disclaimer language. You can find this on Page 6.

2a. ALTERNATE TO COMMUNITY LOGO

In certain cases you may use the below 'Fan Made' text instead of the Star Citizen Made By The Community logo. However, this must be approved by our legal department. You can contact them through the appropriate channels by submitting a request on the Fankit site. These must be applied using the same visibility requirements as the above trademark notice:

Fan artwork:

Made By The Community

Fansite:

This is an unofficial Star Citizen Fan Site

Fan crafts:

This is a Fan Made item

2b. REQUIRED TRADEMARK NOTICE AND DISCLAIMERS

Use the following required trademark notice on any websites, images, or other fan projects that use Fankit content or Star Citizen branding.

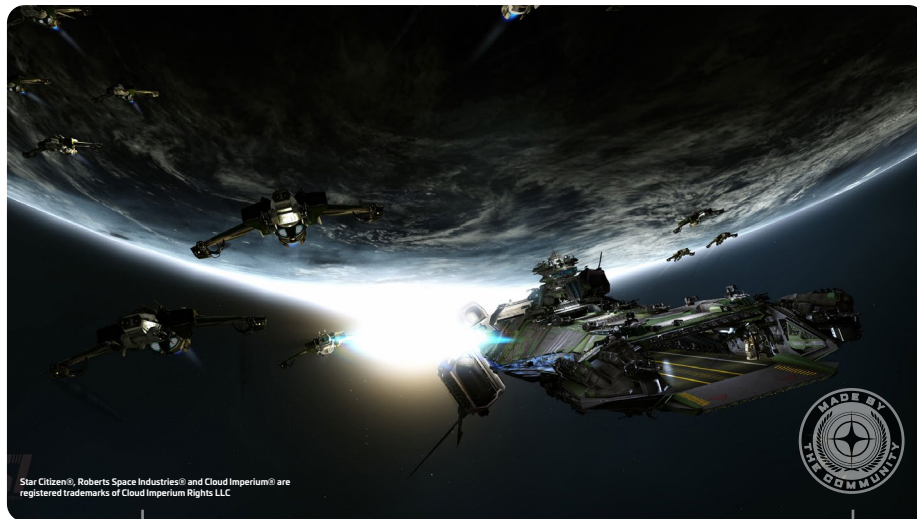

In all cases, the below trademark notice and disclaimers should be placed in a visible location in a legible font size and color, no less than 10 point font. On a website, they should be displayed on the home page, on a navigation area that is always visible regardless of scrolling, or both. On written works, they should be included on the same page as authorship information.

Star Citizen®, Roberts Space Industries® and Cloud Imperium® are registered trademarks of Cloud Imperium Rights LLC

2c. EXAMPLES

Below are some examples to show you how the Star Citizen Made By The Community Logo, the alternative community notice and trademark notice should be used:
